About the Activity

Students learnt a lot from this guest session that how should they take a calculative risk in our personal as well as in professional life. Quoting it like if we consider our growth rate is 1% daily then compounding it over, we will grow 37 times per year, which when looked from a practical lens is much more than that of an unplanned or unhabitual individual. Just like a coin has two faces, every circumstance has two perspectives as in this situation as a person grows 37 times a year it can also roll him down the hill.

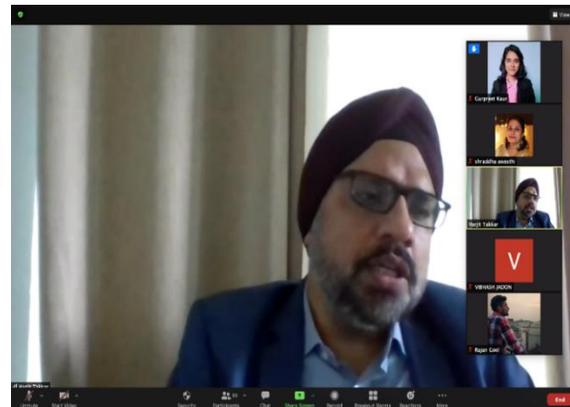

He bestowed the key of personal growth and success via his mantra "It's the good habits that ripens a successful person". He referred to the successful journey of our honourable Prime Minister from becoming a tea seller to the Prime Minister of India. He also threw light on the aspect that how we can classify the human species as a whole-

1. Successful people
2. Mediocre
3. Frustrated ones

The students also gained insight on how to interpret their present phase- maintain a journal and replace bad habits with the good ones.
