About the Activity

The VAC course kicked off with an introduction round of the resource person and students. The primary focus of the VAC was to prepare the students ready to dive into the business world with the skills of communication and understanding the importance of listening. The importance and influence a story telling technique can make in interviews was the focus of discussion. The skills to build your own identity and face the interviews were another focus of these sessions. Various activities and real life examples were presented to understand the importance of Listening. How listening is considered to be the key to communication was the resultant of the enriched VAC course.
