Joining Chitkara Engineering College in 2002 was a life changing event for me. I was provided with innumerable opportunities to learn and grow in the four years I spent there. What set the college apart was a deep academic focus afforded through access to top class faculty and facilities coupled with an equally intense emphasis on all-round development through sports tournaments and cultural events. I was very lucky to leverage these opportunities. More than a decade later, I still remember the memorable time I spent at Chitkara Engineering College encompassing field trips, basketball tournaments, dance competitions and classroom learning. To be successful one needs both in equal measures. Most importantly they should have a lot of fun, make friends and lots of memories while doing all of this, which I did and today I am a proud Alumni of Chitkara.

Chitkara transformed me from a student to a professional. The perfect learning environment & faculty enabled a smooth transition for me and were a crucial part of my academic journey. The exposure I received has helped me gain vital experience and placed me firmly on the path to success. Although I am Post Grad in Business Management too. I had an option to choose a carrier between Management and Engineering but I choose Radio Network Engineering. From national level network planning to Ultra high dense environments like Stadiums, airports and train stations I've designed it all. I have worked through Commonwealth Games 2014, Rugby world cup 2015 and various large audiences. I currently design cellular/Wifi networks and manage a multi skilled team of designers and engineers. All Thanks to my Alma matter

It was the year 2003, we had begun our journey in this prestigious institution Chitkara. We had to overcome significant challenges, but the Institution believed that we could make the most difference and it turned out to be a great success. I Can say There's a famous quote well fits in this scenario : " We are all the work of your hand We are the Clay, you are the potter " I would like to specially highlight that , this environment of Chitkara turned out as the potters and we stood as mere clay and we are wonderfully shaped into fine pieces of art work. The shaping process was hard and long. Our knowledge skills were stretched and tested at many points. But in all those stretching, pulling and shaping process only aim of this institution as a whole was committed for making us what we are and the result is that we're already learning to adapt the knowledge and understandings that we've picked up to actual problems and issues that are confronting into the professional world. So, I stand here to applaud and humbly thank our Institution as a whole. We believe that all this was made possible through the effective learning environment of our Institute.

‘Explore Your Potential’ - This motto of my Alma Matter well defines it. Chitkara University was a perfect amalgamation of learning, Exposure and education. The ideal learning environment and immensely talented faculty helped me in shaping my academic career. During my course of study, I also got the opportunity to study semester exchange programs in Belgium, Korea and also a summer program in University of British Columbia, Canada where the unending experiences helped me in growing both socially and intellectually. It made me embrace different culture, languages and traditions.

Sawadika Chitkara. I was the first ever student joining from Thailand in Chitkara School of Hospitality, Chitkara University. I stayed in the beautiful Campus, home away from home that gave me enough opportunities to prepare for the Hospitality World. I am working with "Marriott Marquis Bangkok Queen's Park" in Bangkok and I owe my success to my Alma Mater for making me learn the nuances of the Hospitality world with such precision. I always look forward to connect back and also welcome every one from Chitkara to Bangkok.

1st Engineer,
Anglo-Eastern Ship Management Pvt Ltd

Sun, Sand and Sailing was my calling as I joined Chitkara to get prepared for a world called Ocean, and believe you me those four years at my Alma Mater taught me how best one can adapt to be a part of waves & tides of life. A founder can carry an institution only so far, and then others have to step in, even the alumni. That's how an institution becomes one, and I am proud to be part of the illustrious Alumni of Chitkara University. Currently I'm sailing as 1st Engineer with Anglo-Eastern Ship Management Pvt Ltd., having its headquarters based in HongKong and have other office presence all over the World including India, Singapore, Houston and Glasgow with a promise of Building trust, driving performance and shaping a better maritime future. I would like to thank Chitkara Alumni Network for Navigating each one of us back towards our Alma Mater and we all look forward to connect back to our vessel called Chitkara.

Squadron Leader
Indian Air Force

Today, I have put in more than 8 years of service towards Nation flying MiG-21. I joined Chitkara University in June 2004 and immediately realized that it's my new family from morning 0900-1700h. The lush green gardens, the state of the art standing tall buildings coming up and a happy atmosphere all around was enough for anyone to adapt easily in the Campus. In these four amazing years, I could witness this great institute changing every single day from good to better and best. The professors, administration staff, cafeteria staff, lab assistants and everyone in the whole big chain always created a comfortable environment for the students and that's why I could strive for success. Having graduated in 2008, appeared in CDSE exam and cleared the SSB process and got selected in Indian Air Force & got commissioned as "Fighter Pilot of Indian Air Force in year 2010". Yes, the life is totally different from what I graduated in and what I am today but no knowledge goes waste and that's why I am the IT officer in-charge of my squadron and that is only because of my learning in CSE which was imparted in me by the esteemed Chitkara staff. Thank you and keep rising Chitkara Alumni Network because for Chitkarian's even sky is not the limit. Jai Hind!

Defence Space Administration, Nigeria

Having completed my Bachelor's degree with Chitkara University in 2012, It was not easy to leave a place that has given the push to enhance myself all round, exploring my potential. Like the popular saying, "nothing lasts forever", I had to move on with life. Returned to Nigeria and have worked in several places and at several positions. These places include: University of Ilorin as Assistant Lecturer and Lab Technologist, I also headed the Web development & IT Security team at Tros Technologies in Lekki Lagos and presently, I am with the Defence Space Administration, Abuja, as a Cyber Security Analyst. I have continued to follow Chitkara University online via various platforms and I am really proud to be associated with my Alma Mater. I look forward to visiting very soon and in my little way contributing to the massive growth the University is experiencing.

I studied in Chitkara University for a year and I never regretted this choice: there is so much that Chitkara has to offer and also I was glad to be in "Incredible India. I was in School of Mass Communication where I learnt a lot about Journalism in India. It doesn't matter what subject you are going to study in Chitkara, the most interesting is the bonhomie with your class fellows, timeless talks with your teachers, learning about your differences, and try to understand each other's' culture. It was an amazing learning of cultural diaspora's of two countries. Currently I am writing my Masters' thesis about "Women Empowerment in India". I am really grateful to Chitkara for getting me familiarized and acquainted with the rich culture & diversity of Incredible India, besides offering invaluable networking, providing a global environment with dynamics of International education to raise global awareness.

With Best Wishes
