Date: 26th February 2019

In the year 2000, UNESCO announced International Mother Language Day (IMLD) with an objective to promote linguistic and cultural diversity and multilingualism. Focusing on the same ground, Chitkara College of Education, Chitkara University, Punjab celebrated International Mother Language Day (IMLD) at campus. The students from College of Education weaved out various activities to portray the importance of mother language. They depicted a thought-provoking play 'My Language My Pride- Meri Bhasha MeraMaan' to pass on the message at large that if a child has a strong hold on mother tongue, how easy it is for him/her to learn new language(s). The students also recited beautiful self-composed poems in Hindi, Punjabi, Urdu, Pahadi and English to narrate the agony of Mother Language. Some of the students also painted the reflections of Mother Language on their respective canvas.

The chief guest of the day, Mr. Louis Lopez, Principal St. Stephen's School, Chandigarh, beautifully summed up the celebration by quoting 'India is a diverse nation and we should be proud of our language diversity. The regional languages collaboratively make a bouquet in which every colour depict a different language. A child can easily comprehend a new language if mother language is used as a medium of teaching.'

Dr. Madhu Chitkara, Vice-Chancellor, Chitkara University, said that 'The world is coming closer and the geographical boundaries are depleting due to globalization. Each one of us should be open to learning a new language and learning new language(s) becomes easy when you know your mother tongue'. She also shared that Chitkara University is working with Erasmus+ project - CLIL@India. Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) is an innovative pedagogical practice in the Indian education system to preserve the nation's multilingualism. She said, 'Through CLIL approach we are trying to bring about a balance between English and the regional languages. CLIL is an innovative method that can supplement the 3-language policy in India'. Total forty students participated in the event.

HUMAN AND CHILD RIGHTS DAY

Date: 10th December 2018

“The rights of every man are diminished when the rights of one man are threatened.”— John F. Kennedy.

Human rights and the child rights are one of the most ignored rights across the world. The essence of a peaceful society is based on these underlying rights. The rights not only grant the person a sense of dignity and freedom but also make him responsible to the rights of fellow human beings. With the growing hunger of power and this ever-going competitive world, the society and its members have ignored these rights for a long period of time. We promote our students to respect the rights of fellow person yet also exercise their own rights. We organized a debate and a discussion session so that students can share their experiences and the students can be sensitized on the importance of these rights. In this event the numbers of participants were 98.

International Women's Day (IWD) is dedicated to celebrating women's achievements in the social, economic, cultural, and political spheres. To honor womanhood, Chitkara College of Pharmacy, Chitkara University, Punjab has celebrated the International Women's Day by organizing a one day workshop "Patriarchy, Male Dominance Role and Women Empowerment in Society", on 8th March 2019 in Chitkara campus. A total of 110 students & faculty members of university attended the workshop. Dr. Sandeep Arora (Director CCP) was there to make the event livelier. On this International Women's Day, there was a healthy debate on the theme "Legal Rights for Women". Dr. Geeta Aggarwal, Delhi Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences & Research, New Delhi and Dr. Rupinder Kaur Sodhi, Chandigarh College of Pharmacy, Landran, Mohali delivered their expert talks on the theme for international women day "Think Equal, Build Smart, Innovate for Change". Dr. Rajni Bala, Dr. Amarjot Kaur, Dr. Poonam Arora, Dr. Thakur Gurjeet Singh, Dr. Manjinder Singh, Ms. Janita chander and Dr. Madhukar Garg participated in the panel discussion and all talked about all the rights that Indian women holds in India and women should know their rights to defend themselves and be careful against crimes against women. A healthy discussion was done about women's rights which includes –

- Women have the right to equal pay (Working women have the right to draw an equal salary, as compared to men.)
- Women have the right to dignity and decency.
- Women have the right against workplace harassment (Under this act, she can submit a written complaint to an Internal Complaints Committee (ICC) at a branch office within a period of 3 months.)
- Female sexual assault victims have the right to keep their identity anonymous.
- Women have right against domestic violence
- Women have the right to get free legal aid. (Under the Legal Services Authorities Act, female rape victims have the right to get free legal aid or help from the Legal Services Authority who has to arrange a lawyer for her.)
- Women have the right to register virtual complaints. (The law gives women the provision for filing virtual complaints via e-mail, or writing her complaint and sending it to a police station from a registered postal address. Further, the SHO sends a police constable to her place to record her complaint. This is in case a woman is not in a position to physically go to a police station and file a complaint)
- Women have the right against being stalked (Section 354D of the IPC makes way for legal action to be taken against an offender if he/she follows a woman, tries to contact her to foster personal interaction repeatedly despite a clear indication of disinterest; or monitor the use by a woman of the internet, email or any other form of electronic communication). All these ideas were shared and the word Women was taught its real meaning, making the workshop a great triumph.

“RETAIL TACTICS” EDUCATION PROGRAM

5th October 2018

The unorganized retail formats in India are mostly family run businesses or one man shows or sole proprietorship firms. No specific standard operating procedures are followed in such kind of businesses. For these business entities, 51 students of MBA (Retail Management) organized an event and elucidated few points mentioned below:

- Make the high profit items visible
- Make good use of holidays: Use gigantic sales signs
- Cleanliness and good ambience of the store
- Keep the goods ready and Good Packaging with branding.
- Competitive pricing and MRP regulation should be introduced. The GST bill will of course help in reducing the burdens on consumer heads.
- As far as credit is concerned they can also adopt prepaid schemes where a customer should be encouraged to deposit a part of money every month and enjoy hassle free shopping in the rest of the month.
- The local shops should keep their commitments and should try to do some database management.
- They should think sponsorship as a method of brand building. Local festivals can be sponsored by these Kiryana stores.
- Delivery model should be emphasized more. We need to do a concrete strategy to ensure timely home deliveries.

FINANCIAL LITERACY PROGRAM

4th September 2018

Financial Literacy Program is managing money is a skill that doesn't come naturally to everyone, particularly those with limited exposure to financial concepts. As we detail in this paper, rising debt loads and college costs have made it essential for aspiring students, current students, and recent alumni to take the necessary steps to understand personal finance and make wise financial decisions. Unfortunately, many individuals are ill-equipped to develop sound financial behaviors at a time when they need them most – at the start of their adult lives or at a major transition point. Human nature makes it easy to develop poor spending and budgeting habits. The impact of poor financial decision-making on the individual is readily apparent. A lack of financial literacy and/or capability can often result in negative consequences, such as poor credit ratings, denial of credit, and even increased difficulties in obtaining a residence or employment. Beyond promoting the overall well-being of their current and former students, which is critical to nearly all colleges and universities, there are other returns on this investment from an institutional perspective as well. The objective of Financial literacy program @ Chitkara College of Sales and Marketing is to empower all CCSM students to make informed financial decisions by providing them with financial management knowledge and skills necessary to navigate life events that affect every day financial decisions, to discuss issues surrounding personal finances, and to plan for the future. Though the lack of dedicated funding appeared to limit such an endeavour, we quickly realized this was an issue impacting all parts of campus, and our outreach to the broader community allowed for more creative input and content tailored to our students.

Understanding the importance of the fact that ‘Customer is the King’, 51 students of MBA S&M (Retail Management) have visited the unorganized retail market of the village KaloMajra and educated the retailers about relevance of maintaining a good customer relationship in business. A sound and well-rounded customer relationship management system is an important element in maintaining your retail business. Not only is customer relationship management in retail a business strategy, but it is also a powerful tool to connect retailers with their consumers. The students interacted with retailers and help them in understanding the psychology of the customers as today’s retail marketing landscape is changing and retail industry organizations struggle to achieve or maintain good marketing communications with existing consumers as well as prospective customers.

Students helped the retailers to identify consumer-related issues, better understand your customers and meet their needs with the company’s products and services, by making accurate estimates regarding product or service demands in a given consumer market, also helped in formulating strategies so that product can reach to the customers at the right time, in the right channel with a personalised offer.

Unorganized retailers operate in challenging times, under constant pressure to adapt and evolve to keep pace with rising customer expectations, while running operations for less. Whether it's people and devices, or data and applications, connectivity delivers true workplace transformation, enabling owners to innovate within their role and deliver an enhanced retail customer experience.

Few highlights of the shared insights are:

- Co-creation: The new digital shopper is highly interconnected with his social peers and is more willing than ever before to share experiences and let others profit from his/her interactions with products/services. Consumers help co-create the value proposition basis their willingness to provide feedback which helps refine delivery models on an ongoing real time basis.
- Competition: This is a revolutionary mindset that combines competition with collaboration. Suppliers and retailers are no longer competing for limited resources but are working together to profit from enhanced customer value being delivered.
- Communication: Communicating with the customers through different platforms make the business more visible and customer centric.

PREPARATION OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT PLAN- JHANSLI, PUNJAB
11th March 2019 to 3rd April 2019.

Village study forms an integral part of the curriculum of the programme of B. Architecture at the Chitkara School of Planning and Architecture, inculcated in the subject of Architectural Design-VI as the major design project in 6th semester. Village Jhansli was chosen to be the topic of village study for the students of the batch 2016. A team of 100 students led by 12 faculty members visited the village twice a week to collect the relevant data from 11th March 2019 to 3rd April 2019.

The objective of this study was to build special attitudes and skills for designing for traditional, vernacular and rural environments by,

- a. Identifying unique attributes of such environments
- b. Identifying development issues of such societies
- c. Creating context-responsive designs

To achieve the above-mentioned objectives, the whole village Hamlet was divided into 19 zones following the street patterns, and the students were divided in teams of 5-6 students and each team given 'one' zone to study. The work of students comprised of, filling up of the Socio-Economic forms from each and every family residing in the allotted zone, and preparing a to-the-scale base map of the zone, with the detailed Plan, Elevation and Section of two houses, one which display a vernacular type of construction system and one relatively newer type of construction system. In addition, at the end of the exercise, an overall to-the-scale drawing of the entire village Hamlet was prepared by 'stitching' together the base-maps of all the 19 zones together and a block model of the village prepared. After which through series of discussions with the students, the issues in the built environment of the village were identified, after which the students gave their respective design proposals. These design proposals were then designed and detailed by the students of the 2016 batch.

EMOTIONAL SELF-AWARENESS ACTIVITY

21st January, 2019

The Department of Electronics and Communication Engineering in collaboration with NSS, Chitkara University, Punjab organized an emotional self-awareness activity on 21st January 2019. 35 NSS volunteers participated in this event.

Emotional awareness is the ability to recognize our own feelings. It is the foundation of emotional intelligence. Besides helping us be aware of our emotions, these skills are important for developing emotional intelligence, according to Daniel Goleman and his bestselling book Emotional Intelligence. Understanding why we feel a certain way and knowing how to handle these feelings, including self-motivation; the ability to recognize the feelings of others (empathy) and to motivate them – these skills are crucial to success and happiness in every aspect of our lives and in our relationships with others. In this activity, the focus is on getting in touch with eight emotions a teen chooses, raising awareness of how a particular emotion manifests itself, and how it affects the teen's life. It is based on art therapy principles and is performed individually.

Instruction Round

Firstly, students are asked to draw a circle and divide it into eight pies. Then, dedicate each pie to one emotion and fill in each pie with a corresponding colour or images that match his/her idea of what the emotion means to him/her.

Discussion Round

After the Student is done with the drawing, initiate a dialogue. You may find these questions useful: What does each image mean to you? What made you choose those colours? When in your life do you experience this emotion? What emotion is dominant for you nowadays? What emotion is the hardest to handle? And so on.
